New Fight Rages For Stanleyville

Plane Crashes Amid Gunfire, Killing Seven

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Sharp fighting broke out Monday around Stanleyville Airport where a Belgian plane crashed Sunday night amid heavy rebel sniper fire, killing 7 of 15 persons on board. Flights into Stanleyville were turned back.

It was not clear whether the Belgian DC4, chartered to transport refugees, was hit by rebel fire or had mechanical difficulties on its takeoff run. It crashed into a jungle at the end of the runway.

"The situation in Stanleyville is far from calm," a U.S. Embassy spokesman said. Reports reaching Leopoldville indicated the rebels had regained virtually complete control of Stanleyville. Congolese Army troops held the jungle-edged airport.

Six Belgians Plane Victims

Six of the plane dead were Belgians — three of them crewmen — and the seventh was a Congolese. Among the survivors was Col. Albert Liegeois, a Belgian who is a commander in the Congo government's anti-rebel drive.

On one flight turned back at Stanleyville because of the fighting was Maj. Michael Hoare, commander of the white mercenaries who led Congolese forces into Stanleyville last Tuesday to join Belgian paratroopers in the rescue of white hostages amid a massacre.

The Congolese troops remained after the pullout of the Belgians over the weekend.

Congolese Army Chief Joseph Mobutu ordered newsmen to stay away from Stanleyville. Rebel snipers have been shooting at planes in Stanleyville ever since government and Belgian forces moved into the former rebel capital.

Congo Troops Seize Bunia

Farther to the north, about 200 Congolese Army troops led by 30 white mercenaries captured the town of Bunia where several hundred white hostages were believed to have been held. The troops reported no sign of the hostages and diplomats in Leopoldville expressed belief that they had been taken to Watsa, north of Bunia.

Diplomats had reported that the Belgians had scheduled a jump on Bunia but called it off because of reports that the whites had been moved out.

Forty other white refugees arrived in Leopoldville, including a British missionary, F. J. Gunningham, his American-born wife and two children, John, 3, and Elizabeth, 1.

The only other American known here to be in rebel territory was William McChesney, 28. He was last reported near Wamba.

The premier warned that he would resist any attempt by the Organization for African Unity (OAU) to interfere in the Congo's internal affairs.

Tshombe issued the warning shortly after his arrival to seek moral support — not military aid — from President Charles de Gaulle. He said his government had the Communist-led rebellion in hand.

Tshombe said he and his ministers would insist on attending meetings of the OAU, which has set up a commission headed by Kenya's Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta to seek a solution to the Congo crisis.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A White House emergency board told President Johnson Monday that no agreement has been reached in East and Gulf Coast longshore negotiations. This raised the possibility of a dock strike starting Dec. 20.

Longshoremen in ports from Maine to Texas will be free to resume their work if not agreement is reached by midnight Dec. 19 when an 80-day no-strike injunction expires.

A three-man panel named by Johnson to investigate the dispute over management demand for manpower cutbacks reported to the Chief Executive on the deadlock.

"At this time, the parties are not in agreement on several issues," the emergency board said.

But it added that both sides have declared they genuinely want to reach a solution before the "cooling off period" is over. Johnson acted to halt a one-day old dock strike last Sept. 30 by invoking the Taft-Hartley Act emergency provisions. This created the fact finding board, consisting of arbitrators Herbert Schmertz, James J. Healey and Theodore H. Kheel.

White House Denies Hoover Is On Way Out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson has "never entertained" any idea of replacing J. Edgar Hoover as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the White House said Monday.

The disclaimer was in response to a story in Newsweek magazine which said the President had become a "disenchanted fan" of Hoover and intended to replace him.

Asked about this, White House Press Secretary George E. Reedy said, "the President never heard of any such proposal—that Mr. Hoover be replaced—and never entertained any such idea. It's unfortunate that this story wasn't checked out prior to publication."

Newsweek defended the article. Its editor, Osborn Elliott, issued this statement late in the afternoon:

"The report in this week's issue of Newsweek that 'the search is on' for a successor to Mr. J. Edgar Hoover came from a most reliable source within the White House, and Newsweek stands by the statement."

The question of Hoover's future was raised in the aftermath of the Nov. 18 interview he gave to a group of women reporters. At that time he called the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. "The most notorious liar in the country," and hit out at the Warren Commission for its criticism of the FBI.

Hoover has been the all-powerful head of the agency for more than 40 years. On Jan. 1 he will be 70 years old, the mandatory retirement age. But Johnson has extended his tenure indefinitely.

Reedy was asked if Hoover planned to resign when he turned 70. He said he could not speak for Hoover, and that the director was capable of speaking for himself.

Rail Talks Shift To Washington
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Talks with three holdout non-operating unions shifted back to the nation's capital from Chicago Monday in efforts to avert a nationwide rail strike.

Leaders of the "three shopcraft unions, and representatives of the nation's railroads, Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and other government representatives met Monday in the Labor Department.

After meeting first jointly with both sides and then separately with the carriers, Wirtz said there was "progress in clarifying the issues, but not in identifying a settlement."

He said there was a difference of about 10 cents an hour over a three year span separating the railroads and the unions.

Wirtz said no new strike date had been set.

Eight other non-operating unions have settled their dispute with the railroads — largely in line with the recommendations of a presidential emergency board calling for a 27-cent hourly wage increase spread over three years.

Assembly's Session Seen Most Critical

Future Of World Peace Organization May Be At Stake

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In an atmosphere of unprecedented uncertainty diplomats from around the world converged on U.N. headquarters Monday for a General Assembly session many regard as the most critical in history.

Failure to find a formula for postponing a U.S.-Soviet confrontation over U.N. peacekeeping assessments caused gloom to spread through the big glass and stone headquarters building in advance of Tuesday's assembly opening.

All Eyes On Soviets

Diplomats from the 112 member nations present for the session included many foreign ministers and others of top cabinet rank.

All were watching the Soviet delegation headed by Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko for clues as to Soviet policy in the wake of the change in the Moscow leadership.

In past sessions diplomats could look forward to a normal routine opening day with the chief event the election of a new assembly president.

Ghanian Election Seen

Ambassador Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana is regarded as certain to get the post. But any move to hold a secret vote as in the past could bring about an immediate clash over whether the Soviet Union should lose its vote because it is two years behind in peacekeeping assessments.

This would set off a debate that could last for days, and put off indefinitely consideration of the 92 issues on the agenda of the 19th session. These range from the question of Chinese representation to the demands of the lesser developed nations for a bigger slice of the world's economic output.

As the windmill-like vehicle marked the half million mile mark on its 325-million-mile flight, scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory began pondering the best time to order a change in course they hope will curve Mariner 4 within 8,600 miles of Mars next July.

When launched Saturday at Cape Kennedy, Fla., the camera-toting spacecraft went into a trajectory that would miss Mars by 200,000 miles. Jet Lab scientists, who built Mariner 4 and are controlling its flight by radio, say they can correct any error up to one million miles.

They hope to make "the mid-course correction sometime this week by triggering a small rocket on board the 505-pound craft which will drive it closer to Mars. Still to be decided are the precise time and duration of the direction-changing rocket's burn.

At noon Monday Mariner 4 was 425,685 miles from earth, traveling 7,315 miles an hour, a speed that will slowly lessen as it coasts through space toward a rendezvous that could help explain such ancient mysteries as "Mars' canals" and solve the question of whether life can exist on the desert-dry planet.

As mariners for centuries have used the North Star as a guide post, Mariner 4 is using the planet's star Canopus, a second brightest in the southern sky.

Guided By Star, Mariner Heads Toward Mars

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union launched a heavy earth satellite Monday and from it sent a rocket speeding toward Mars in a race with the U.S. rocket Mariner 4.

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Guided by a giant, once-worshipped star, the Mariner 4 spacecraft streaked toward Mars Monday with cameras designed to send back the best pictures yet of that mysterious planet.

Belgium Denies U.S. Reluctance Halted Mission

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The government denied Monday night that its Congo rescue mission was cut short because of U.S. reluctance to become further embroiled.

A spokesman for the Foreign Ministry said in reply to questions at a news conference that there was positively no U.S. pressure to call off the operation.

At the same time, the office of Prime Minister Theo Lefevre issued a statement contradicting a Belgian newspaper story which quoted Lefevre as stating that the United States did not want to proceed with the mission.

S. Viet Troops Rip Into Reds Near Saigon
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government forces ripped the Communist Viet Cong around Saigon and far to the north in actions reported Monday. In fighting near the capital, government forces stood off a charge by seven wild buffalo in addition to the Viet Cong.

A surprise helicopter-borne swoop 35 miles north of Saigon netted 34 guerrillas killed and 30 suspects captured. Only 18 miles from Saigon, the South Vietnamese repelled waves of yelling Viet Cong, killing 47.

Four Americans were reported wounded in this action, three of them returning to duty after treatment. A fifth American was wounded by small arms fire while on convoy duty north of Saigon.

Government losses from the Viet Cong and the buffalo near Saigon were placed at six men killed and 25 wounded, including one man gored as the buffalo closed with scrambling infantrymen. Two bulls were killed.

The buffalo charge came as an infantry battalion found itself bogged down in three feet of water in swampy Vaico Oriental River country. The beasts charged a reconnaissance company that found itself faced with a totally unexpected development.

Russ Spurn Showdown Delay Plan

Rusk, Gromyko Apparently Fail To Resolve Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union rejected Monday a plan by Secretary-General U Thant to head off a showdown on U.N. financing.

And U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk apparently failed to alter the Soviet stand at a 2 1/2-hour luncheon meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Both termed the session, their first direct contact of the post-Khrushchev era, "inconclusive." They will meet again in a few days.

The prime topic was Russia's refusal to pay its U.N. dues for peacekeeping operations. For that, the Soviets could lose their General Assembly vote in the fall session opening Tuesday.

Soviets Oppose Delay
The Soviets issued a tough statement, "categorically" opposing the idea of putting off important General Assembly matters in order to avoid a quick showdown on the deep financial-constitutional issue.

Thant proposed to the four big powers last week that they agree to postpone all important matters until after the first of the year so that there would be no occasion to question the voting rights of the Soviet Union.

The lack of immediate success from the U.S.-Soviet meeting set off another round of intense diplomatic activity at the U.N. aimed at staving off a showdown when the assembly meets Tuesday.

One alternative under discussion was a plan to adjourn the assembly session until a later date to allow time for financial negotiations.

Neutral Nations Confer
The African-Asian countries met late in the day to consider the search for a way out of the crisis. The nonaligned countries scheduled a parley Tuesday morning. Meanwhile, Gromyko met with U Thant in the afternoon as Rusk had earlier in the day.

After his meeting with Rusk, Gromyko declined to say specifically that the Soviets will push for a showdown. A Rusk spokesman also would not say that the Soviets are going to bring the dispute to a quick climax.

Other U.S. sources said that while some other U.N. member could bring on a showdown at the assembly start, they believe that both the United States and the Soviet Union want to put off a confrontation.

Soldier AWOL From Pentagon Job In Custody

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Army sergeant who disappeared Oct. 2 from his job in a Pentagon office handling secret material has been taken into custody, the Defense Department said Monday.

Staff Sgt. Robert L. Johnson, 43, surrendered himself to civilian police in Reno, Nev., Nov. 25. He was taken by military police to the Presidio in San Francisco on Nov. 28, the Pentagon said.

"He is currently in the custody of military authorities at the Presidio of San Francisco but will be moved to Fort Meade, Md., in the near future," the Pentagon said.

"Army officials are conducting an investigation to determine the disposition of Sgt. Johnson's case."

The sergeant was assigned to the Pentagon courier transfer section and was stationed at Fort Myer, Va.

The Army said five days after Johnson disappeared that an inventory of classified matter in the office where he was assigned revealed no missing secret or confidential material.

Negro Home Blast Target

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — A dynamite bomb wrecked the carport of a $30,000 Negro home on the fringe of a white neighborhood Sunday night and a fancy automobile was credited with preventing injuries by absorbing the blast.

The explosion damaged the home of Charles Spears, a well-to-do manufacturer's agent who disclaimed any connection with the civil rights movement.

The local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) demanded a full-scale investigation and the city commission announced it would offer a $500 reward.

Assistant Police Chief E. P. Brown said a preliminary investigation showed two or three sticks of dynamite were used to bomb the brick and wooden structure shortly before midnight Sunday.

Police said they had "little to go on." No suspects had been arrested.

Senators To Reopen Baker Probe Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Rules Committee said Monday insurance man Don B. Reynolds will head a list of 21 testifying in hearings on his alleged contribution of an illegal $25,000 to the 1960 Kennedy-Johnson national campaign fund.

There were indications Reynolds may level other accusations against Bobby Baker, once a top Senate aide and influential Democrat.

John P. McLendon, the committee's special counsel, told a news conference Reynolds will get a chance to tell Tuesday from the witness stand his version of an alleged diversion of funds from the Washington, D.C., stadium construction project into the 1960 campaign efforts.

Reynolds has emerged as the principal accuser in hearings on the big-money business dealings of Baker.

Reynolds has sought to link the names of Baker and Democratic politician Matthew H. McCloskey, a former ambassador to Ireland, in connection with the purported payoff deal.

McLendon said he questioned Reynolds last Friday about the alleged payoff but that Reynolds balked at answering questions on other major matters unless Sen. John J. Williams' R-Dele. could be present. It was through Williams that Reynolds had made public his allegations about a payoff deal.

McLendon said the committee staff also has turned up evidence concerning a matter which "deals purely with a crime" involving no one connected with the Senate.

A well-placed source told a reporter the reference was to allegations of some high-pressure political fund-raising tactics which did not involve directly any senator, Senate employee or official past or present.

McLendon said he would ask the committee at a closed meeting Tuesday in advance of the public hearings whether it would care to go into the matter since the FBI and Justice Department also have "every particle of evidence" that the committee investigators found.

In a Senate speech last Sept. 1, Williams forced the reopening of the once-closed hearings into Baker's financial affairs. At that time Williams said McCloskey, frequently a fund raiser for the Democrats, made an overpayment of $35,000 to Reynolds on the underwriting of the performance bond on McCloskey's contract to build the stadium.

Williams quoted Reynolds as swearing that $25,000 of the overpayment was to be funneled into the Kennedy-Johnson fund through Baker, then secretary to the Senate Democratic majority. The Federal Corrupt Practices Act forbids campaign contributions by corporations.

Burch, Halleck Face Moderate GOP Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Challenges from moderate Republicans loomed on the horizon Monday for GOP National Chairman Dean Burch and House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana.

A band of GOP governors planned to press for a change of faces in the party leadership when they and their colleagues meet in Denver Friday and Saturday for their annual conference. Burch was not invited.

And a group of Republican congressmen sought support Monday for a House GOP caucus in mid-December to work out a unified approach to party problems brought on by the Democrats' overwhelming election victory.

There were no specific plans to oust Halleck, who has been chief Republican in the House since 1959, and who supported Sen. Barry M. Goldwater's losing bid for the presidency. But one congressman said Halleck might lose his job before the caucus ended.

Rep. John B. Anderson, Ill., said the proposed mid-December conference was designed solely to form a "more effective working minority party" in the House.

"I can say from the bottom of my heart that I'm not participating in any movement to dump Charlie Halleck," he said. "And unless I am extremely naive and misread what the others said, they aren't either."

But another would not discount the possibility, which he said he would risk, that anti-Halleck sentiment might develop at the meeting. "That's not the purpose in calling it," he said, "but you can't tell what may happen once it's under way."

Burch, personally chosen by Goldwater to be GOP national chairman, was the target of a group of moderate Republican governors who will be in Denver later this week for the GOP governors' conference.

Idaho Gov. Robert E. Smylie, the conference chairman, said in a telephone interview he expects a "new, broadened mechanism" of party command along moderate lines to emerge from the Denver discussions.

"We're not going to let the architects of disunity be the unifiers," he said. "There has to be a change, and a change of faces."

There was no assurance however, that Burch would be replaced immediately.

World Remembers

Frail, Feeble Churchill Observes 90th Birthday

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill was 90 Monday. World statesmen sent greetings. Boys and girls called with flowers. Britons rejoiced. And the other ones remembered.

Inside his West End apartment, where he spent the chilly day, the Old Man was left with his memories too.

Frail and feeble now, he rested for the main celebration — a dinner with his closest friends and relatives. On the menu, a lifetime Churchill favorite: oysters.

All through the day, post office trucks pulled up outside the apartment in Hyde Park Gate bringing loads of telegrams, letters and birthday cards. The total birthday mail is expected to be about 60,000 pieces.

Among the greetings were messages from President Charles de Gaulle, President Johnson and ex-President Dwight D. Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman, old wartime friends.

For thousands of Britons, it was a personal act of tribute — a kind of special day of thanks.

Thanksgiving Traffic Toll Breaks Record

Thanksgiving holiday traffic took a record 554 lives during the 102-hour weekend period from 6 p.m., Wednesday, to midnight Sunday, local time.

The toll was the largest in four-day Thanksgiving holiday traffic fatality surveys since they were started in 1958. Last year's November holiday period saw 543 traffic deaths, then also a record.

AMA President Urges Doctors Fight Medicare

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The president of the American Medical Association urged doctors Monday to stand firm against Medicare — even in the face of new strength in Congress for the measure.

"The hurricane that is about to hit us will be more furious than any we have weathered in the past," said Dr. Donovan F. Ward.

Pointing to what he called "certain grim realities in the political arena," Ward said:

"The possibility that a federal health care program financed from increased Social Security taxes will be rejected is considerably less than it was a few weeks ago."

Ward cited a number of polls indicating that the nation was, at best, divided on the issue. He said one poll, taken during the presidential campaign, showed a majority of citizens opposed further welfare programs.

Immediately after Ward's speech, the House of Delegates was asked to agree to a public educational program costing an unspecified amount but involving all media of mass communications. The delegates will vote on the measure Wednesday.

Ward emphasized that the AMA was for medical care for everyone but against the intervention of the federal government in a way which might tend to interfere or control medical practice.

"We are opposed to this invasion of the voluntary relationship between the patient and the physician," Ward said.

At least three state delegations are offering resolutions for action by the legislative group that would offer some manner of compromise in the approach to health care for the elderly. The delegations are from Michigan, California and the District of Columbia.

Boy, 15, Fatally Shot By Youth

SILVER RUN, Md. (AP) — Borislav Tankonic, 15, of Silver Run was fatally wounded by a shotgun blast at the home of another 15-year-old Monday, State Police said.

T. Bryan McIntire, Carroll County state's attorney, said a warrant would be issued charging the other 15-year-old with the slaying.

State Police said the victim had been involved in an argument with the other boy.

Tankonic was struck in the chest by a blast fired from close range, police said. The boy was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. Glenn Speicher, county medical examiner.

Cost Of Living Continues Up

WASHINGTON (UPI) — As usual, it cost more to live in October than it did the month before.

The Labor Department reported Monday that living costs rose one-tenth of 1 per cent in October. In the last 12 months, the cost of living has increased 1.2 per cent.

The October figure was 108.5 percent of the norm. This meant it cost $10.85 to buy the same goods and services that could be purchased for $10 in the 1957-58 base period.

This October rise, coupled with a decrease in the spendable earnings of the average factory production worker, cut the average worker's purchasing power by about 77 cents from the September figure.

Pope Planning Beirut Stop

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI's jetliner will make a 30-minute refueling stop at Beirut, Lebanon, en route to India Wednesday, the Vatican announced Monday.

Although about half the 1.5 million population of Lebanon is Christian, the decision to make the stop at Beirut was seen here as a step to soothe Arab resentment toward a Vatican Ecumenical Council pronouncement on Jews. The document held that Jews cannot be held responsible for the crucifixion of Christ.

The Vatican announcement said the pontiff will leave the plane at Beirut airport to be received by President Charles Helou of Lebanon and other officials. The Pope will not go into Beirut itself.

FUNERAL HOMES

Question

In our present day pattern of living what are your duties as a funeral director?

Answer

Since the beginning of time close friends have been called upon at the time of death to carry out the necessary religious and legal requirements of burial. Our funeral establishment actually evolved from this need on the part of people to turn to someone thoroughly qualified. Although our facilities have been continually updated throughout the years, our responsibility to function as a friend has remained constant.

We are charged with arranging the details which embody a complete funeral service. Death certificates, Social Security and Veterans forms, newspaper notices, burial or transit permits, cemetery authorization forms—all are a part of the routine legal demands processed by us.

A funeral, however, is essentially a religious ceremony. Because of this fact we must maintain a constant awareness of the funeral policies of all religious denominations. In our present day pattern of living, therefore, we furnish the place, the technical and legal knowledge and the mobility required to assist the family and the clergyman in the proper conduct of a funeral service.

Harry Phoebeus, Colorful Maryland Senator, Dies

CRISFIELD, Md. (AP)—Harry T. Phoebeus, who prided himself on being a provincial state senator from Somerset County, died Monday.

Death came at the age of 71 to the Republican political figure in Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury. He had been operated on Friday for cancer, a disease which cost him his left eye two years ago.

Somerset County people elected him five times to the State Senate, once to the Maryland House of Delegates, their county commissioner and treasurer.

Phoebeus was born in Oriole and lived there all his life. His business was selling automobiles.

Phoebeus was floor leader of Republican senators for eight years and they were a minority in a true numerical sense. For four years, he was the leader of a trio and he joked about holding its "caucus in a telephone booth."

His humor and rural speech was a facade for a wily politician. "He's crazy like a fox," opponents said in admiration.

He bragged on his devotion to his county.

"I came here as a free man and I want to go out as a free man, under no obligations except to the people of Somerset County," he said of his service in the Senate.

His last demonstration of love for the Eastern Shore was last year when he ordered legislation prepared to make it a separate state. The area is under threat of legislative reabsorption because of its scarce population.

"The Shore is the finest place in the world with the finest people in the world and it shouldn't be broken up or added to," said Sen. Phoebeus.

His only public service outside Somerset County was as state labor commissioner. He served only one year and was removed on charges of malfeasance filed by his predecessor as Republican floor leader, Robert B. Kimble of Allegany County.

He did file for Congress and governor without success. Once he even announced as a candidate for Congress from Baltimore City.

Funeral services for him will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at

Barnes Appointed To Appeals Court

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes announced appointment Monday of Judge Wilson K. Barnes of Baltimore to the Maryland Court of Appeals.

He will succeed Chief Judge William L. Henderson, who will reach the mandatory retirement age of 70 on Dec. 8. The governor has not yet designated a new chief judge.

Judge Barnes, 57, has been a member of the Baltimore Supreme Bench since Aug. 13, 1963. He is a native of Pocomoke City and a graduate of Western Maryland College and the University of Maryland Law School.

Portofino, a fishing village that has sheltered seafarers on the Italian Riviera since Roman times, now draws scores of luxury yachts. To protect Portofino's charm, Italian law forbids any renovations that would alter the village's outward appearance.

St. Paul's Methodist church in Oriole.

He is survived by his widow, Vera; two sons, Harry T. Jr., Crisfield lawyer, and Theodore, Somerset County court clerk; and two daughters, Ruth and Mrs. Mary A. Lynch of Wilmington, Del.

Four Indicted At Baltimore In S&L Probe

CHICAGO (AP)—Indictment in Baltimore of four Chicago area persons on charges of conspiring to obstruct justice in an investigation of savings and loan operations was made public on Monday with a hearing for two of them.

The four defendants are C. Oran Mensik, former savings and loan association official; his former personal secretary, Miss Marianne Barto; Robert M. Kramer, a contractor; and Henry McGurran, a lawyer.

Kramer and McGurran appeared in U. S. District Court, where Judge James B. Parsons continued the hearing until Dec. 2 when Mensik and Miss Barto are expected to appear. Kramer and McGurran were free on $5,000 personal bonds.

Federal authorities said Mensik has been on a vacation trip to the Caribbean and could not be reached with a subpoena.

The indictment charges that the four conspired to spirit into Canada documents which had been subpoenaed by a federal grand jury in Baltimore.

The indictment charged that the documents were moved to Montreal to prevent the grand jury from pursuing its investigation into fraudulent operations of savings and loan companies.

Mensik, on March 13, was sentenced in federal court at Richmond, Va., to five years in prison on conviction of mail fraud.

Mensik appealed his conviction and sentence.

Maryland Briefs

BALTIMORE (AP)—A boy pronounced dead at Johns Hopkins Hospital Sunday night may have been a victim of glue sniffing.

Police said two friends found the 13-year-old youngster unconscious and moaning in a vacant lot near his home. Later, police reported, a passerby said he had seen a boy with a bag to his mouth in that area.

Officers found a brown paper bag in the area which smelled of model airplane glue.

CHESTERTOWN, Md. (AP)—Funeral services will be held Tuesday for William Franklin Leaverton, an engineer with the State Roads Commission for 33 years.

Leaverton, 71, died in Kent Queen Annes Hospital Sunday night after suffering a heart attack. He had been resident maintenance engineer for Queen Annes County for four years before his retirement last year.

His widow, Estelle Leaverton, and a daughter, Mrs. Calvin W. Loughy of Hyattsville, survive.

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police outnumbered football fans Monday when the Baltimore Colts, champions of the National Football League's Western Conference, arrived home from a victorious road tour.

Airport police said they were ready for big crowds like those in the past but none showed up for the 6 a.m. arrival.

"It was real quiet," said one officer. "It's too early. Nobody wants to get out of bed that early, even to see the Colts."

U.S. Takeover Of Assateague Will Be Fought

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A Worcester County lawyer said Monday that federal acquisition of Assateague Island will be fought "until we all drop dead."

L. Hollingsworth Pittman, attorney to the Worcester County Commission, promised the continued opposition at a conference with the Maryland Commission of Forests and Parks.

"We are going to fight it, right through the halls of Congress," Pittman said.

His remarks were in answer to refusal of the parks commission to allow the county to build a temporary road on land owned by the state on the island.

S. Lawrence Hammerman, parks chairman, said such a road might endanger plans to develop Assateague as a national park.

"We feel this shows tremendous bad faith by the state," said Pittman.

The county commissioners maintain they have an obligation to private lot owners on Assateague to build an access road from the bridge which was opened late last summer. The owners are paying property taxes, some of which will be used to pay for the bridge.

The state obtained a court injunction to prevent the county from constructing a road. Although the parks commission refused to budge Monday at the conference with county officials, it postponed final and formal action until a regular meeting next Tuesday.

Trial Speedup Plan Proposed

BALTIMORE (AP)—An experimental plan to speed up trial of accused criminals in Baltimore was proposed Monday by committees for lawyers.

A purpose of the plan by the bar associations is to avoid holding defendants unduly long in jail.

Five judges assigned to criminal cases would be relieved of the routine arraignments which would provide a total of about 20 more hours a week for trials themselves.

Prisoners without funds of their own would have lawyers appointed for them within 48 hours after arrest.

Baltimore Sun Copy Desk Supervisor Dies

BALTIMORE (AP)—Lynman W. Mauk, 46, supervisor of the Baltimore Evening Sun copy desk since 1961, died Sunday night at Sinai Hospital after a brief illness.

After World War II, Mauk was a copy reader on the old Los Angeles Daily News. He also worked on the copy desks of the Los Angeles Herald and Examiner before going to Pittsburgh in 1950.

In Pittsburgh, he was with the Pittsburgh Press and the public relations department of Jones & Laughlin Steel Co.

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN

(C 1964: By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As dealer you hold:

AKQ4 ♠ AQJ10 ♦ AKJ4 ♣ 6

What is your opening bid?

A.—Two spades. This is a rare hand on which an opening two bid may be made on a four card suit.

The values for a game are held by opener. The hand contains 24 points in high cards in addition to two for distribution. A value of 26 points or more is needed to play in game in hand. The opening bid is made in spades to allow the economical showing of all three suits in an effort to determine the best final contract.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

AK10 ♠ AKQJ4 ♦ 7 ♣ J8642

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♦ 2 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—There is a choice between three and four hearts, and we have a slight preference for the latter. Partner's free raise to two hearts indicates a good hand and, with the adverse overall of two diamonds, it is highly likely that partner's values will be in the black suits, which should make the hand fit very well.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

AK2 ♠ KQ103 ♦ KJ5 ♣ Q72

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid?

A.—One heart, with two hearts as a very close second choice. This may come as a slight disappointment to those who have heeded my earlier advice to make direct bids whenever possible. A three no trump bid is, therefore, tempting. The top limit of a three no trump bid is 18 points. On this hand, however, we have an extra ten-spot and the added factor that the queen of clubs, in view of partner's bid, is apt to be worth more than the two points normally assigned to it. While our preference has been for an approach which we would not look down our noses at anyone who chose a three no trump bid.

Q. 4—As dealer you hold:

9764 ♠ AKJ ♠ AQJ ♠ AK5

What is your opening bid?

A.—This is the exceptional case in which the opening bid of two no trump is recommended with one suit not safely stopped. The second choice would be a bid of one club, but you might find it extremely difficult to paint a complete picture of the hand on subsequent rounds if you choose that opening bid. The two no trump call has the merit of fully describing your high cards and type of distribution in one stroke.

Q. 5—As South you hold:

AJ752 ♠ KJ4 ♠ 83 ♠ AKQ

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's jump in clubs has shown a strong hand. The values where you must need them. His jump bid was forcing to game and was based on the possibility that you might have a minimum. The showing of a new suit at the level of one did not promise additional values. Inasmuch as you have considerably more than a minimum with splendid distribution and three controls, you should take your chances on a slam contract by a direct bid of six clubs.

Q. 6—As South you hold:

AK104 ♠ A1095 ♦ 432 ♠ J108

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass

3 ♠ Double ?

What do you bid now?

A.—It might be tempting at this point to show what fit in spades, the suit in which partner has jumped, but such action is not recommended for this would be in the nature of a free bid and your response was made on minimum values. You have already kept the bidding open and shown a preference for partner's first suit. This is all the action which you are entitled to take with this minimum holding. A bid by you at this point would indicate additional values. Let partner have the next say.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

AK104 ♠ A106 ♦ A ♠ Q964

Ann Landers . . . Answers Your Problems

ANN LANDERS Tues Dec 1

Dear Ann Landers: Recently we bought a lovely home through a real estate broker. He was a pleasant chap and we grew very fond of him.

Yesterday he brought a gift—a handsome brass door plaque complete with screws—obviously for the front door. On the plaque was beautifully engraved THE HENDERSON'S.

I was horrified to see the apostrophe. As you know, this is grammatically incorrect. We can't figure out what to do. My husband suggested I call the man and chide him about his poor grammar. I'm afraid it might hurt his feelings. At the same time I don't want to display a plaque with an error.

Can you provide a solution?

— HENDERSONS WITHOUT APOSTROPHE

Dear Without: Don't call the man. Call the engraver and ask him to convert the apostrophe into a decorative flourish. Perhaps he can add a matching flourish between the H and the E for balance. (P. S. When customers don't know better, the engraver should.)

Dear Ann Landers: I am 5' 8" in my stocking feet. Since I can't go anywhere in my stocking feet I am 5' 10" in shoes — the kind I like to wear.

Please don't throw away this letter just yet. I'm not going to ask what to do about a short boy friend. I'm married to a professional basketball player who is 6' 5" tall.

My problem is that whenever we go where there is music, every runt in the place rushes up and wants to dance. There can be two dozen petite dolls sitting around but the half-pints I feel foolish towering over these fellows and I'm sure we make an odd-looking picture. How can I get out of dancing without hurting anyone's feelings? — UP THERE

Dear There: If runts didn't think you were pleasant company they wouldn't ask you.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Ask A Favor, Make A Friend

People who need people — and know it aren't afraid to show it — are the people who make friends quickest and keep them longest. To them, change is a challenge and a new situation is a new beginning.

One woman, whose husband's frequent promotions always mean a transfer to a strange community, make short work of getting adjusted by getting acquainted. Her favorite method is the favor. "I can't manage, in those early weeks, without some help or advice . . . and I find my new neighbors are usually delighted to give both. After that, they don't have to hesitate in asking me to return the favors."

So, in mutual need, good relationships are born. Newcomers can't stay strangers once they seize the opportunity to give, to contribute, to participate. More often than not, they must make those opportunities happen. How else will their willingness to become friends?

The oldest — and most successful — introduction in human history is probably the transparent request to "borrow a cup of sugar." There are a thousand-and-one variations on this, each making it easy and natural to pay that "first call" in which you exchange names with a new neighbor, fellow student or co-worker. Asking for a recommendation — of a good doctor or the best places to shop or a satisfactory restaurant — is undoubtedly the most flattering of favors. It intimates that you have observed your neighbor, that you admire her taste and respect her advice and opinions.

Occasionally you'll run into women who consider independence a way of life, who don't want to involve you because they don't want to be involved. And there are others who will look upon that initial favor as an invitation to imposition. But you won't know about such attitudes until you get to know each woman as an individual. The majority will, like yourself, be glad to call you — and call upon you — as a real friend.

Does your voice make pleasant listening for others? You can do much, on your own, to improve its speaking quality. Send now for my pamphlet called "Your Most Attractive Voice," by writing to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper, enclosing 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Keyser Native Gets Press Job With Governor

KEYSER—John A. (Jack) Canfield, a native of Keyser, has been named by Governor-Elect Hulett C. Smith to handle his press relations from his Beckley office where plans are being made for the new administration.

According to the Charleston Gazette, a sweeping reorganization plan for the governor's office, patterned in many respects after the White House table of organization, is in the formative stage at this time.

Canfield, a Smith press aide during the election campaign, is reportedly one of the newcomers who will join the governor's office staff. He will become an assistant to Press Secretary Con Hardman, who has been Barron's assistant for public relations since 1961. Sources say Smith wants Hardman to remain with him.

Canfield, the son of Mrs. Frank Walker, Virginia Street, is a graduate of Keyser High School, Potomac State College, and West Virginia University. Prior to joining Smith's campaign staff, he was working with a house subcommittee in Washington which had as its chairman Rep. Harley O. Staggers, of Keyser. He is married to the former Miss June Smith of Keyser, and they have two sons, John and Christopher.

Governor-Elect Smith, who is currently preparing his program to submit to the 1965 Legislature, from his Beckley office said that the West Virginia State Democratic Headquarters in Charleston is continuing to operate under the chairmanship of James Sprouse.

W. Va. Doctors To Meet On Compensation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Representatives of the State Medical Association and State Workmen's Compensation Commissioner Cletus B. Hanley will smoke the peace pipe here Dec. 9.

They will meet to iron out their differences over the question of how much doctors should be paid for treating compensation cases.

Last month the doctors group withdrew its support of the state fee schedule for doctors treating these cases and said that negotiations with Hanley had "broken down."

Hanley replied that he was surprised at the action since he had prepared a new schedule giving the doctors a 22 per cent increase.

The association said Monday that doctors had received the new schedule by Nov. 17, claimed it "was fixed by the commissioner without the advice or counsel of the State Medical Association."

The association has agreed to meet with Hanley to work out a "mutually satisfactory agreement."

Trial Slated In $32,000 Armed Theft

PRINCETON, W. Va. (UPI) — The trial of Mrs. Pearl Blankenship Bell, 39, charged with robbing her mother's home in Bluefield, will begin here Thursday.

Mrs. Bell was accused with three others of robbing the house of Mrs. Eula Blankenship of $32,000 on May 23rd. She is charged with armed robbery, assault and malicious wounding.

Police say she and three companions forced their way into the Blankenship home, shot David Blankenship, 17, and Sidney Sexton, 66, and escaped with a trunk allegedly containing the money.

Tony Shiro, 31, of Washington, D. C., has pleaded guilty to armed robbery in the case and will be sentenced Dec. 4.

Another Washington man, Joseph Sullivan, is awaiting an extradition hearing in Washington. The other alleged accomplice is still being sought.

The trial will take place in Mercer County Intermediate Court.

Jeeps For Taxis

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — The government ordered army jeeps and trucks and government limousines into the streets of Tehran Monday to replace strike-bound taxis.

The strike began three days ago to protest government increases in the price of gasoline and oil. The prices were raised last week to earn $93 million annual revenue for development projects.

Detention Law Ends

PRETORIA, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa's controversial 90-day detention law will be suspended from Jan. 11, Justice Minister John Vorster announced Monday.

The law, introduced in 1963, allowed police to hold sabotage suspects for successive 90-day periods without a court appearance.

It was widely criticized by opponents of the government and liberal groups, who said it gave authorities the chance to brainwash and intimidate suspects.

The Organization of American States (OAS) — embracing the Western Hemisphere's 21 republics — is the world's oldest international organization. The OAS marks its 75th anniversary in 1965.

Unusual Way To Catch Bear

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — A 200-pound Himalayan bear, an escapee from a tourist attraction, was reluctantly dragged back to his cage Sunday, after keeping police busy for almost two hours.

The black and yellow bear fled Friday. Two motorists spotted him Sunday in a parking lot.

Two state troopers, two sheriff's deputies and the animal's owner, Paul Lukaris, tried to entice the bear back into a cage with bread and fruit.

But the bruin, described as friendly, would only reach into the cage, grab the food, and scamper away to trees nearby.

After attempts to trap the bear failed, Lukaris attempted to put a chain around its neck.

But the bear decided to play. Finally, Deputy Theodore Rhem tried a new tactic — he stood still. The bear nibbled at his trousers and played with his feet. When the bear stood up to embrace Rhem in his huge arms, Lukaris crept up and got the chain around him as Rhem backed away.

Five men, pulling together, managed to get the animal back into a cage.

Community College Now Has 10,351 Library Books

The library, an integral part of any college curriculum, is growing by leaps and bounds at Allegheny Community College.

Mrs. Mary Louise Holzapfel, librarian, has revealed that ACC has 10,351 books on hand, and the number is expected to grow to 11,000 by January.

Keeping stride with the increase in student enrollment, at the three-year-old college is the student use of the library.

Mrs. Holzapfel explained that during September, use of the library tripled, compared to the circulation of September last year.

Because of the growth in circulation and student population, more library space had to be found. An additional room is being readied for library use and is near completion.

It will be equipped with study tables for students and shelves for books to be purchased by the college and donated by residents of the community.

The library received an appropriation of $25,000 in the 1964-65 budget to be spent on library material, periodicals and books.

Local citizens have donated 2,000 books to the library. Mrs. Holzapfel said the college is "very grateful" for the contributions, which include back issues of "Horizon and American Heritage," 11th edition of "Britannica Encyclopedia," two volumes by Thomas and Williams, the Hudson edition of Shakespeare, analytical chemistry volumes, chemical education volumes and phonograph record albums.

Gifts that will add to the development of the library are welcome, the librarian said. However, textbooks and technical books 10 or more years old are not acceptable.

A bookplate giving the donor's name is placed in each book donated. Acceptable books are catalogued and shelved with the regular collection.

Books and magazines not applicable to college collections will be sent to the U. S. Book Exchange in Washington, from which ACC is able to obtain out-of-print foreign publications needed. Through the exchange, books are made available to libraries in most need.

The ACC librarian said the college is attempting to acquire books, periodicals and pamphlets not only to implement the curricula, but also materials that will encourage a spirit of inquiry and develop life-long reading habits.

Shearing explains his emergence upon America's jazz scene as if it was a rebuff to the maddening sounds of some musicians who were looking for a new style in the 1940's.

"There'd been this mad hop period," he said. "People were ready for something more placid, palatable. I suppose there was a difference between the originators of hop and their disciples."

Shearing came along with music the listener could both understand and look upon as something new.

For almost 15 years, Shearing and his group toured the country playing an endless stream of engagements, a night here, a week or two there. It was the lonely road known to most successful musicians, days spent in hotel rooms and coffee shops, night on a smoky saloon bandstand.

About a year ago, Shearing decided he had enough time on the road. He was living in a home in the Toluca Lake area of North Hollywood. He no longer cared to spend ten months on the road.

So George took a year off from his regular playing schedule and began studying the classics, perfecting his ability at the piano. A few months ago he decided to test his classical skill.

"We've done a number of symphony concerts, usually in the pop series," said Shearing, who has performed with symphony orchestras in Cleveland, Oklahoma City, Salt Lake City,

Reflector Lights Are Being Tested

Reflector-type street signs are being given a "test run" here.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder said the department has been considering use of the reflector-type signs for some time.

In the past, she said, these have either been a loud green or orange which, it was felt, would enhance the street's appearance. The department, however, has found a reflector sign similar to signs in use, which will give additional service and be more easily visible at night.

The signs are being tested at Myrtle and Warren streets; Myrtle and Eichner Avenue; and Oldtown Road at Cresap Street.

If found satisfactory, old signs will be replaced, Mrs. Roeder said.

Soviet Flu Warning

MOSCOW (AP) — The Communist youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda has warned that the Soviet Union may be due for a flu epidemic this winter.

Be glad you have the economical heat—GAS

If you had wire resistance heat, this situation would send your heating bills sky-rocketing. But not with gas. Gas heat is so thrifty, it can take the in-and-out traffic of an active family without wrecking the budget. You don't need expensive extra insulation to conserve heat, as you do with resistance heat. A forced-air gas heating system carries warm, fresh filtered air to every room in the house, including the basement. No layers of still air, where uncomfortable cold spots develop.

And all this can be done with just one thermostat for the whole house. Individual room heating is old-fashioned. You don't need it with thrifty gas. When you want to convert to whole-house gas air conditioning, a compact gas cooling unit added to your modern forced-air gas heating system can do the job quickly and inexpensively.

No. 472 Voting on state or local candidates and issues did not take place in all states currently with the balloting for presidential electors in 1864. Thus the drift in political sentiment was made evident in October in a manner more conclusive than any straw-vote poll could have given it.

In Indiana and Ohio, two hotbeds of Copperhead extremism in 1861-1863, the gains made by candidates supporting the Lincoln-Johnson ticket foreshadowed a victory by the latter. The results in Pennsylvania were less reassuring, but no McClellan landslide appeared possible. The absentee ballots soldiers and sailors, from some states, were permitted to cast for the first time showed a substantial opposition to McClellan among the armed forces.

(After the closeness of a vote in Pennsylvania was indicated, a direct means of aiding Lincoln-Johnson with soldier ballots was resorted to—will be told in No. 475 of this series.)

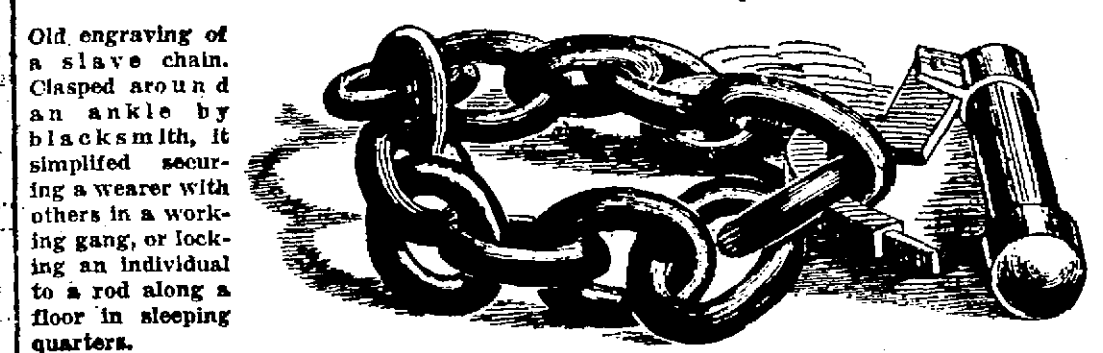

Of particular significance was the state election in Maryland, where the soldier absentee vote helped secure a majority vote for a new constitution outlawing slavery immediately. Maryland slave-holders had caused the first bloodshed in the war, at Baltimore, in 1861.

Earlier, another border state, Missouri, had adopted an ordinance that slavery should cease entirely July 4, 1870, after a process of gradual emancipation according to age. But one of its senators in Washington, John B. Henderson, went ahead and proposed a joint resolution by Congress for an amendment to the U. S. Constitution for abolition of slavery everywhere forthwith. The Senate passed it, but members of the House, who had to run in 1864 for re-election, delayed the submission of the amendment. However, the iniquitous Fugitive Slave Act of 1850 was repealed by action of both houses.

Two states in which votes for president did not count in 1864, but in both of which Union forces were predominant, abolished slavery by constitutional amendment.

In 1864, the Emancipation Proclamation of Lincoln began to be effective.

Business Division May Top CUF Goal

The Cumberland Business Division of the eighth County United Fund stands its best chance in six years to surpass its $10,000 goal.

Businessmen of the area are less than $1,000 away, needing only $961.75 to reach their community achievement mark. The goal this year is the highest ever.

Under the co-chairmanship of Richard D. Heacock and Thomas G. Riley, and through the time-consuming efforts of team captains and the generosity of most business houses, the division is making one of its best charitable showings in CUF history.

To date, five CUF campaign teams in the Business Division already have surpassed their individual goals with room to spare.

Team Six, headed by J. Brooke Fradiska, has reached 105.4 per cent; Team 7, captained by David M. Watson, has recorded 109.1 per cent; Team 12 with Gary Layman as captain has recorded 101.8 per cent; Team 13 with Albert Tosh as captain has reported 117.8 per cent, and Team 14, with Miss Jeanette Bonig as captain, has achieved 113 per cent.

Overall, the Business Division is at 90.4 per cent of its goal and the division co-chairmen both indicated that these last couple days of the campaign should take the Cumberland area businessmen over their mark.

Temporary Business Fees Are Increased By Council

The Mayor and Council yesterday raised the license fees for "temporary businesses" within the City of Cumberland.

In an amendment to the present ordinance, fees were raised to $1,000 for the first month and $300 a month for each month thereafter up to a period of six months.

Under the old law, the fee was $500 for the first month and $100 a month for each month thereafter up to six months.

A temporary business was defined as one, either wholesale or retail, which is not the owner of the building or premises; has a lease for a term of less than one year; or is a tenancy by the month.

Council had announced two weeks ago it planned to strengthen its ordinance after two local businessmen protested about a discount business which moved onto Baltimore Street and which, they said, would be there only a short time. Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill said yesterday that the increased fee provision is aimed at that type of operation.

Council's session was an abbreviated one with both Mayor Earl D. Chaney and City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen representing the city at the hearing on the proposed merger of the B&O and Western Maryland Railway in Washington. Water Commissioner G. Ray Light was acting mayor.

Commissioner Light was authorized to advertise for bids for 2,000 feet of six-inch slip joint cast iron pipe and fittings; 500 feet of 4 inch pipe; four 6-inch gate valves and six 4-inch gate valves, to replenish the Water Department warehouse stock.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roe, under the authority of the Mayor, authorized the department was authorized to construct a storm sewer from Braddock Road to Windsor Road.

Defunct Insurance Firm Hearing Set

BALTIMORE (AP)—The State Insurance Department has set Dec. 28 for a hearing on administrative charges against Stanley Orlove, owner of National Motors Insurance Co. which folded last March.

Orlove, who was indicted for filing a false financial statement with the department, could lose his insurance agent's license at the hearing.

Although he pleaded no contest to the indictment, he was fined $1,000, and the attorney general's office says that's as good as a conviction.

The insurance commissioner can lift a license if the agent has been convicted of a "crime of moral turpitude."

Potomac Park Church Has Fellowship Dinner

A fellowship dinner was held by Potomac Park Evangelical United Brethren Church Wednesday in the social room, at which time the pastor, Rev. George S. Widmyer, and his family were honored by the congregation.

Apartment House Permit Legal, Engineer Reports

No violation exists in the issuance of a permit for a North End apartment building and a charge to that effect was through a misinterpretation and misunderstanding by the complainant, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum told the Mayor and Council yesterday.

Mr. Nuzum said he wanted to make a report "for the record" since the Engineering Department has been subjected to the violation charge in granting the permit for the building on Holland Street.

Hunter Helfrich of Sylvan Avenue, who appeared before council, had charged that the area involved for the building was in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Mr. Nuzum said he, City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen and George Scarlett, building inspector, met with Mr. Helfrich. The complainant admitted he was wrong in his interpretation, Mr. Nuzum said.

Remarks such as Mr. Helfrich had made in a public meeting are "unfortunate," Mr. Nuzum said, adding that many times when proved incorrect, the harm has already been done.

Last week, Mr. Nuzum said he felt citizens who felt they had complaints should contact responsible people in the department for an explanation of the situation before making public charges before the Mayor and Council.

Cuba's flag was designed by a Cuban patriot living in a New York rooming house more than a century ago. It flew for the first time on May 11, 1850, from a New York building, and was first raised as Cuba's official emblem above Havana's Morro Castle on May 20, 1902.

Three Damage Suits Filed

Three damage suits were filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

One of the suits was filed by Michael Cosgrove and Mrs. Mary M. Cosgrove, his wife, RD 3, Valley Road, against Potomac Edison Company, Inc., and C. W. Wright Construction Company.

The plaintiffs state that they gave representatives of the Wright Construction Company permission to go onto their land to drill holes for the installation of poles and power lines about August 24. They contend that their newly-grown corn was knocked over, a television line was knocked down and an artesian well was destroyed.

Both of the other damage suits involve traffic accidents. Mrs. Pauline W. Kennell and Merle E. Kennell, her husband, RD 4, Wellersburg, Pa., brought suit against Ralph Taylor, individually and trading as North End Auto Company; Lawrence Taylor and Gary R. Taylor, both of Mt. Savage Road.

Mrs. Kennell states that she was driving her husband's car south on State Route 36 about one-half mile northeast of Frostburg on November 7 when the car was struck head-on by another operated by Gary Taylor as agent and servant of Ralph and Lawrence Taylor, injuring her.

The third suit was filed by Wilbert I. Bittner, for his own use and use of Wilbert W. Bittner, P. O. Box 148, Corriganville, against Carl Grabowski of Ellerslie.

Wilbert W. Bittner was operating a car owned by his father, Wilbert I. Bittner, which stalled on the Ellerslie Road while headed south about one-half mile north of Corriganville about 12:15 a. m. October 2. The car was destroyed and the younger Bittner sustained injuries when a northbound vehicle operated by Grabowski crashed into the stalled car, according to the declaration.

Britain Opposes Any Viet War Expansion

LONDON (AP)—The Labor government said Monday Britain fully supports U.S. efforts in South Viet Nam but firmly opposes any American drive into Communist North Viet Nam.

The British position was outlined to U. S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball in two days of talks with Prime Minister Harold Wilson, Foreign Secretary Patrick Gordon Walker, Defense Minister Denis Healey and other officials.

Building permits issued by the City of Cumberland during the first 11 months of the year are valued at $3,591,545 and will pass the $10 million mark before the end of the year.

The total will be boosted to this record figure when the contract for the new Sacred Heart Hospital is awarded. John McShain Inc., Baltimore, was the apparent low bidder, at $6,400,000, when bids for the hospital were opened last week.

A permit for the hospital will be issued shortly after the contract is awarded since the City Engineering Department has reviewed and approved the plans. The permit fee has been waived by the Mayor and Council.

During November, the City Building Engineer issued 21 permits for construction valued at $273,450. Included were 13 for new construction estimated to cost $265,600 and eight additions and improvements valued at $7,850.

Included are nine residences with a total value of $173,500, one residential garage at $2,500, a $10,000 car wash building, a $800 warehouse, a $79,000 concession building, five additions to residences valued at $4,750, two improvements to residences listed at $1,600 and a $7,500 improvement to a business property.

The 11-month total of $3,591,545 includes 144 permits for new construction valued at $3,092,810, 63 additions and improvements estimated to cost $49,573 and a $3,000 permit for moving a house.

New Slaughter In The Congo

The slaughter in Stanleyville of dozens of whites is but another of the grotesque reminders of the primitiveness of some of the earth's inhabitants. Yet each new horror is sickening.

Here were dedicated people, gunned down as they squatted and scrambled in the dust of an African village street. Their only crime was that they came to serve. Their reward: to be made to share the 11th hour of an international pipsqueak, making his final, futile effort for world attention.

Why didn't somebody do something? They did, and though in retrospect it might not appear to have been enough, it was, perhaps, all that could be done in an inherently tragic situation.

Throughout the three months the rebels held Stanleyville, the United States gave token support to the efforts by the Congo central government to subdue them militarily. When this operation began to work, and Christophe G. Benye, self-styled "president" of the rebels, announced that Dr. Paul Carlson, U.S. medical missionary, and other hostages would be killed if invasion came, new actions were begun.

The United States began futile negotiations with the rebels, using the Congo Reconciliation Committee of the Organization of African Unity as intermediary, and it supplied planes and logistical support for the paratroop drop that eventually became necessary.

The problem was how to free the hostages, while taking measures to cause them the least possible harm. The action taken seems to have done this. Though it brought death, it did save a thousand other lives.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Laughed To Death

The Hearst Task Force that has been visiting the Iron Curtain capitals of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Hungary has spaded up some exciting evidence of local attempts to adapt free market incentive features to the end of making socialism work. This paradoxical turn of affairs could mean much or little, depending on a whole variety of circumstances that nobody can foresee. The satellites are assuming much greater freedom to think and plan for themselves, but progress in this freedom is obviously subject to what happens in Moscow. And Moscow, in its turn, will have to reckon with the vagaries of Red China.

From the Western point of view, the news that the Iron Curtain economies are having to experiment with profits and incentives constitutes an entirely unlooked-for propaganda victory for the Western way of life. While we have been softening the sort of stuff that goes out over such channels as Radio Free Europe and doing every little to bring the issue of Soviet imperialism before the United Nations, the Iron Curtain countries have had to admit that socialism in its more rigorous forms just doesn't work. We don't deserve our good luck in this, but there it is. The job now for our propagandistic agencies is to get that news through to nations that are on the fence in South America, in Southeast Asia and in Central Africa.

The story, as my friend Bela Fabian of the exiled Hungarian Freedom Fighters keeps pointing out, begins with the reaction of millions of oppressed people behind the Iron Curtain to the failure of the Hungarian Revolution in 1956. The rumblings of Russian tanks through the streets of Budapest were a signal that open rebellion would not work. So the word went out all the way from Prague and Warsaw to Kazakhstan in central Asia to substitute a silent slowdown for overt action. A quiet but nonetheless deadly form of sabotage has brought the masters of Communism everywhere behind the Iron Curtain to realize that they must give something to the individual if they want to keep their own jobs.

Where open defiance has failed, the seepage of ridicule is finally succeeding. Throughout Hungary, for example, a labor "decadence" has been circulating. The "new Ten Commandments" passed around in Hungarian factories reads:

1. Laziness is responsible for one-half of your health.
2. Whatever is to be done today can be done just as well tomorrow.
3. Any matter which is not solved automatically in thirty days is not worth taking up.
4. Don't search for zeal lost in looking for work.
5. Failure to do a job means no mistakes, and no mistakes must win a bonus.
6. Don't be misled into working just because somebody else is on the job.
7. Don't monopolize all the space at the work bench.
8. Since wages are only minimal, working effort should correspond.
9. The factory is not a cafe, and it is not necessary to spend all one's time in it.
10. We know the axiom, "work ennobles," but who needs nobility under socialism?

This sort of stuff is deadly, and the Communists have felt compelled to take notice of it. Unfortunately from their own point of view, they have only succeeded in spreading the circulation of the "decadence" by printing the attacks on it in their official journals.

The business of laughing socialism to death recalls the tactics of the International Workers of the World, the notorious Wobblies, of pre-World War I times. One of the Wobblies—or "I Won't Work"—songs that springs to memory went this way:

"The hours are long,
The pay is small,
So take your time,
And do them all."

The Wobblies, of course, wanted to kill capitalism. But now the irony of history has come full circle, and the Wobblies spirit is forcing at least a partial return to capitalist economics in the lands behind the Iron Curtain.

'Can't We Negotiate Like Human Beings?'

What Was 'Trigger-Happy' In October Isn't Now

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It's strange what a difference just a few weeks make. What was "trigger-happy" in October is no longer "dangerous" or "irresponsible" in November — now that the Presidential election is over.

General Maxwell Taylor, who is the American ambassador to Vietnam, is one of the ablest of our government's military advisers. He has served not only as chief of staff of the United States Army but also as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. So when he comes to certain conclusions which sound a bit familiar because they were uttered just a few weeks ago by Senator Goldwater, this doesn't mean that they are not valid or that they should be brushed aside now. For in their hearts high officials here have known for some time that the policy in Vietnam could not be left to founder indefinitely.

General Taylor, in an interview published this week in "Life" magazine, has stated that in Vietnam "the winner will be the one that has the ultimate will to win." He favors the bombing of supply bases in North Vietnam, just as Senator Goldwater urged. The general says:

"There are two areas where that could make a contribution—namely, by making more difficult the infiltration along the routes from North Vietnam, generally by way of Laos; or striking the infiltration sources, the training areas in North Vietnam itself. In so doing the government of North Vietnam would be reminded that it cannot get off unscathed, that indeed they stand to lose far more than they have any likelihood of winning."

"These possibilities do exist, but they have their pros and cons. I would add again that pure military action outside the country, just as pure military action inside the country, will not win. We must restore a viable society within these provinces of South Vietnam."

What General Taylor said has already brought a significant reaction in the press of the country.

The "Chicago Tribune," for example, says:

"One of the things that may have contributed to the defeat of Senator Goldwater in the Presidential election was his estimate of the situation in Vietnam. He said that we were in an unacknowledged war but that the administration had no plan to win, and that it must either take effective action or admit defeat."

"These statements, and the Senator's discussion of the difficulties of cutting the Communist invasion and supply trails, were exploited by his opponents to build up the myth that he was bellicose and 'trigger-happy.' Yet now when the administration spokesmen, General Taylor, refers casually to the possibility of bombing the infiltration routes from Communist North Vietnam into adjoining Laos, and even of 'striking the infiltration sources, the training areas in North Vietnam itself,' no one cries that the administration is 'trigger-happy' and will wind up getting us in a nuclear war."

The "New York Times," on the other hand, expresses a belief that what General Taylor is recommending appears to be at variance with what President Johnson promised during the campaign. The "Times" says:

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

FEMINE TOUCH—President Johnson's drive to place more women in federal executive positions has produced an unexpected by-product. The offices of these ladies reflect their home-making ability as much as their professional competence.

Mary Gardiner Jones is a new member of the Federal Trade Commission. She's made her office into a miniature art and history museum. Installed in the former severe sanctum are some historic family pieces, pictures, lamps and bric-a-brac. And even though she was appointed by a Democrat, she is a Republican and there is an interesting collection of antique elephants on display.

One of the truly magnificent pieces is a grandfather clock brought to Washington from her New York apartment. And there's an inlaid cabinet containing dramatic ceramic figures portraying Italian Renaissance lawyers. Mrs. Jones is a lawyer by profession.

The two pieces that dominate the room, however, are an American flag and a portrait of a Democrat—Lyndon B. Johnson.

IMPRESSIVE INAUGURAL—Washington is preparing the kind of inaugural that befits the kind of emphatic election victory enjoyed by President Lyndon B. Johnson. Work had begun even before the election on construction of the Inauguration stand in front of the Capitol steps. But the tempo is picking up daily now that Jan. 20 is just around the corner, structurally speaking.

The parade route is being de-birded—an attempt to get rid of some of the millions of starlings that infest Pennsylvania Avenue's trees. The route itself has been shortened and its assembly point so arranged that it will proceed efficiently and not run far into the night as some other inaugural parades have.

A part of the construction at the Capitol will be seating arrangements to accommodate 18,430 Americans and foreign dignitaries—not enough by far to take care of the thousands who will be there if everyone invited by Johnson in the course of his political campaigning should decide to accept.

Understanding The Alcohol-Prone Personality

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Alcoholism is a disease of severely neurotic people. Some drink to escape life's complexities whereas others do so to pursue pleasure at any cost. Many attempts have been made to understand the alcoholic personality so susceptible individuals can be warned before it is too late.

Dr. William B. Terhune of the Silver Hill Foundation in New Canaan, Conn., believes certain types of people are predisposed to alcoholism. Included are those emotionally deprived in childhood, growing up without love or with cold parents. The same applies to men and women who were undisciplined as adolescents or came from alcoholic families. Others have a history of poor adjustment to school, work, marriage, and social obligations.

Early in life, many alcoholics show evidence of irresponsibility and superficiality. They are neither practical nor realistic, lack drive, and are extra shy or sensitive. Manic depressives are potential candidates as well as those who become frustrated easily.

A number of circumstances and situations encourage these individuals to drink. No goals, nothing to do, few interests, and no hobbies lead to trouble. Lack of motivation is high on the list; retired and married women with little to do are in this category. Illness or problem children drive others to drink.

The same can be said of situations that encourage a sense of defeat, especially when associated with self-pity and anger. Periods of prolonged emotional or physical stress drive the susceptible to drink, especially when they become thoroughly exhausted. Struggling to do a job for which a person is unfitted is a common cause of frustration.

Dr. Terhune does not believe alcohol-vulnerable men or women need become tee-totalers. They ought to know the safe techniques of drinking moderately or not at all, and learn not to use alcohol as a crutch.

Senate Probers To Give Reynolds' Record Closer Scrutiny This Time

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—There is something rather strange about the will-o'-the-wisp maneuverings of Don Reynolds, star witness in the Bobby Baker investigation.

Last week Sen. Everett Jordan, the ex-Sunday school teacher from Saxapahaw, N. C., announced that his Rules Committee could not locate Reynolds. Twenty-four hours later Sen. John Williams of Delaware, the man to whom Reynolds had been leaking, practically led Don by the hand into the Senate Rules Committee to accept a subpoena.

Obviously it would have blown Williams' Dick Tracy reputation out of the water if his star witness had failed to show.

But previously there was definite indication that Reynolds was reluctant. For when President Johnson ordered an investigation of Sen. Williams' charges that Matt McCloskey, the ex-embassy to Ireland, had made a $25,000 contribution to Kennedy's campaign out of an insurance policy for the D. C. Stadium, Reynolds failed to cooperate.

The FBI sought out Reynolds without success. He would not talk. Finally his attorney, James F. Fitzgerald, told the FBI that Reynolds would make no statement. "I simply followed Mr. Reynolds' instructions," Fitzgerald told Jack Anderson.

Earlier, Reynolds had told his old friend Bill McClell: "Wait until you see what we spring on them after the Democratic convention." Obviously he was referring to the Matt McCloskey headline.

Possibly Reynolds' reluctance to testify was due to the likelihood that the kindly Senator from Saxapahaw would now be more alert in cross-examining him.

When Reynolds appeared before the Senate Rules Committee for the first time, he was let off with a kiss and a pat on the back. The Senators did not do what is standard practice in any investigation or court of law — examine the reliability and background of the star witness.

Subsequently this column did publish part of this background, including hitherto confidential State Department and Air Force reports regarding Don's interesting past.

State Department Memo

One State Department report read in part:

"Reynolds' background led to the conclusion by an examining panel at the Department of State in 1952 that Reynolds was unsuitable as a foreign service officer and unsuited to represent the United States' interest abroad in any official capacity."

"The Security Review Board in the U. S. Air Force concluded in 1953 that Reynolds' past led to a reasonable belief that he was a security risk. This judgment was based on his 'habits, activities, attitudes, associations, trustworthiness, discretion and loyalty.'"

"While serving as vice consul in Berlin in 1946, Reynolds had a widespread reputation for engaging in black-market activities and other illegal operations. He was engaged in private business while serving as an FSO (Foreign Service Officer) in Berlin. Reynolds trafficked in cigarettes, illegal transportation of personal effects on military aircraft, and getting Germans out of Germany through other than regular channels."

"Reynolds had promiscuous and indiscreet relations with women, enticed female applicants for visas to have sexual relations with him by threatening to 'block' their applications if they did not submit to his desires, and sometimes used the names of colleagues to hide his own identity.

"In Zurich he made unauthorized use of his Berlin consulate's standing to obtain an exit visa for his mistress. This action was discovered and an effort made to stop the visa, but Congressional pressure on the State Department was too great — the girl's destination was Congressman McMillan's home in South Carolina."

Confidential AF Memo

An Air Force report on Reynolds is equally illuminating. It stated in part:

"According to available Air Force records, Reynolds was dropped by the U. S. Military Academy in 1938 and again in 1940 because of academic deficiencies. He was commissioned in the U. S. Army Reserve in 1941. Later while on duty with the Air Force in the Directorate of Intelligence in 1952, he made a false report to the FBI which resulted in an extensive and expensive investigation."

"The investigation backfired on him and disclosed that while serving as an official of the State Department during 1946-49 in Germany and Austria, he had committed adultery, promiscuously, and had used his official position to obtain intimate relations with attractive visa applicants."

"Additional derogatory information was disclosed, including his falsification of official Air Force documents and his threat of deportation to two German immigrants, after his return to the United States, because of their failure to respond to his personal requests."

This is the star witness in the Bobby Baker case who at the first hearings got away without any cross-examination regarding his past. It will be interesting to see whether the Senators ignore his past this time up.

Signs And Portents

By John Crosby

LONDON

It looks like another ghastly winter in Europe. The portents are very clear. The crabs and the lobsters have already crawled back under the sea ledge from which they emerge when the sea warms. The lobsters shouldn't be in winter quarters for weeks. But they are.

In East Sussex the bees are sealing their hives far more securely than they did last winter, a warm one. Around Sussex and Kent the wasps have already gone to bed. A bad sign, a very bad sign. Better lay in the coal now. And in Pevensy Marsh, the tawny owls have started hunting in the daytime instead of waiting for the dusk. Whenever tawny owls start acting like that, it's going to be a cold 'un.

Let's see—what other portents have we got? Well, sir, out at the Royal Liverpool Golf Club, in Cheshire, where the cheese comes from, the crows are stealing so many golf balls off the greens and the fairways that the golfers are taking shotguns along. That means a hard, hard winter. (Actually, it doesn't mean a damn thing; crows will steal anything. I just wanted to see if you were still awake.)

And at Brownsea Island, in Dorset, the peacocks are nesting in trees at night, according to the Times. That doesn't mean anything, either. They always do that. Still, if it's good enough for the London Times, it's good enough for you.

Winter has been going on a long time, years and years now, but it always catches the Europeans, and particularly the English, by surprise. As if this was the first one. The English, Lord love 'em, usually have their pipes frozen cold enough to freeze the pipes here. Then it gets cold enough. The pipes freeze, which is his very un-English of them (they obviously don't read the right papers), and then everyone has to go to the head of the street to a community tap where they get water, and say hello to one another, and say isn't it cold today and imagine something like this happening? (Happens all the time.)

There aren't any snow plows in London because it never snows enough here to need them. Then it snows enough and everyone is terribly surprised because that much snow never falls on London town except every winter.

Then comes the electricity cuts and again everyone is terribly surprised. When the temperature drops everyone turns up their electric fires, their electric Dimplex radiators — then suddenly, poof, the whole island goes dark. This usually happens just when the roast in your electric oven is just beginning to sizzle but is nowhere near done. The next day there are stern editorials in the newspapers saying why doesn't the Electricity Board provide more electricity because this is what happened last winter and they should realize. So it never happens again until the next time.

Then there is the coal situation. Everyone realizes that in a hard winter you need more coal than during warm winters, so naturally nobody orders enough until the last minute. Then the cold yards are so cold that the coal gets frozen into the bunkers and they can't get it out to thaw the other bunkers or, for that matter, anything else.

The one thing that does thaw out in all this cold weather is the English. The colder it gets the warmer they get. An Englishman invites in a neighbor to whom he hasn't spoken for years for a cup of tea. And he won't speak to the neighbor again, come spring. And when everyone's pipes are frozen, the electricity is off, they get mighty neighborly and get together before one another's grate fires, to denounce the Electricity Board, the coal companies, the government, and even higher.

There are a few good things about a hard winter. For one thing, the last cold winter—winter before last—all the English girls bought those knee-length boots to keep their pretty legs warm. They also warm the cockles of my heart, those sexy things.

As for me, if it gets too cold, I flee up an Alp, which curiously enough is the best place in Europe to keep warm. For one thing, you're dressed for it. For another, the Swiss are under no illusions about winter. They admit there is such a thing. They have double windows, plenty of steam heat, plenty of hot water, and, in case that's not enough, a fire in every grate, and in case that's still not enough they pump you full of gallons of hot chocolate.

As a matter of fact, it's very nice weather in London right now, but that doesn't mean a thing. I read in the Telegraph (because I have a morbid interest in other people's temperatures aroused by years of watching the "Today" show where they were perennially telling me that it was raining in Cleveland) that already there is snow in Moscow. There's also snow in Ottawa and snow in Helsinki and 12 people died in snowstorms in Turkey yesterday.

I'd order some more coal right now but that would be sporting. I'll wait till it gets frozen into the bunkers like the rest of the country and we can all freeze together. It's more neighborly.

Majors Draft 63 Minor Players For $572,000

Four Players Are Picked For $25,000 Each

Yanks Get Carmel, Senators Select Seven Tossers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—Duke Carmel, a cocky outfielder exiled to the minors by the New York Mets for sassing Manager Casey Stengel, was one of the players selected Monday by the rival New York Yankees—in the annual baseball draft.

The majors, led by the Washington Senators, acquired 63 minor leaguers, a record-tying number, for $572,000. Only four were picked in the regular draft, at $25,000 each. The others were first-year men purchased for $8,000 each.

Dickson Picked First
Jim Dickson, a pitcher who had been up briefly in the major leagues with the Houston Colts in 1963, was the first player picked. The Kansas City Athletics shelled out $25,000 for the 26-year-old right-hander, who posted a 9-3 record with the San Diego Padres of the Pacific Coast League last season.

Carmel, a 27-year-old left-handed hitter from the Bronx, who lives a home run drive from Yankee Stadium, was one of the International League's leading power hitters last season.

The 6-foot-2, 235-pounder slammed 35 home runs and knocked in 99 runs at Buffalo, a Mets farm club. He batted .271. Only Mack Jones, a Milwaukee farmhand at Syracuse hit more home runs, 39.

The Mets had acquired Carmel from the St. Louis Cardinals in midsummer of 1963. He appeared in 47 games for New York, batting .235. At spring training last season, Carmel landed in Stengel's doghouse because of some caustic remarks and was shipped to Buffalo after the tea broke camp.

The other two players to advance to the majors in the regular draft were pitcher Ron Brundage and catcher Ron Brundage. Both were grabbed by the Colts. Brundage, a 20-year-old southwest, selected from San Diego, pitched for the Peninsula club in the Carolina League, where he won 11 and lost six. He struck out 154 batters in 149 innings and had a 3.14 earned run average.

Brand, a right-handed hitting catcher, batted .273 in 121 games at Columbus in the International League. He hit five homers and drove in 42 runs. Despite the large number of players, which equaled the number selected last year, the draft did not create any particular splash. The draftees are mostly of 18 and 19-year-olds who have had limited professional experience.

Walrath Hit .354
The first-year draftee with the most imposing record is Jay Walrath, a 20-year-old left-handed hitting outfielder, selected by the Washington Senators. Walrath, currently in the military service, was the Appalachian League batting king with a .354 average. He walked 12 home runs and drove in 84 runs in 70 games.

The Senators selected seven players, more than any other club. But the Colts, who picked six, spent the most money. They paid $82,000 to $56,000 for the Senators. Kansas City also took six players at a cost of $65,000.

Among the more impressive looking youngsters, based on their records last season, were pitchers John Shaw and Fred Scherman, outfielders Bob Nash and Stan Thomas, infielders Syd O'Brien and Bob Chisholm and catcher Eliseo Rodriguez.

Shaw, drafted by the Senators, posted a 10-5 record with a 1.67 ERA at Miami. Scherman, a Detroit pick, was 14-13 at Orlando. Nash, the Mets' only pick, batted .310 at Wellsburg. Thomas, taken by Pittsburgh, batted .355 at Idaho Falls. O'Brien, who hit .320 at Waterloo, was grabbed by the Athletics. Chisholm, another Tiger choice, hit .324 at Johnson City and Rodriguez, whom the Yankees liked, batted .354 at Wytheville.

Pitchers were in most demand. There were 32 pitchers, more than half of the total number selected. Fifteen were infielders, nine outfielders and seven catchers.

Twins Heaviest Hit
Minnesota was the heaviest hit, losing nine farmhands, all from the Atlanta club of the International League. The Los Angeles Dodgers lost eight, all from Spokane of the Pacific Coast League, and the Boston Red Sox lost seven.

Three teams, all in the American League, did not lose a player. They are Cleveland, Washington and Kansas City.

Two deals were announced after the draft session. The Los Angeles Angels re-acquired Vic Power, the veteran first baseman, from the Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $20,000. He had gone to the Phillies late last season.

The Senators purchased catcher Doug Camilli from the

Marchetti Sees Michaels, Davis Filling Defensive Gaps

Gino Guest Speaker At Kelly Dinner Here Last Night

By JOE MURPHY
News Sports Writer

Gino Marchetti, 13-year National Football League veteran who was guest speaker at the dinner-meeting of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company national sales representatives at the Cumberland Country Club last night, answered a lot of questions about the NFL in general and the Baltimore Colts specifically.

The native of Smithers, West Virginia, who wound up his college playing days as a member of a University of San Francisco football team, ten of whose players went on to the pro ranks, has proved his ability as a Baltimore Colt defensive end by being selected to eight All-Pro teams and being a member of nine Pro Bowl units for the Western Conference. Last night he proved almost equal prowess as a frank, witty, knowledgeable, and very entertaining after-dinner speaker.

"The Colts' 38-year-old defensive captain, who came out of retirement this year to lead the Baltimore team to its third Western Conference championship, fielded all questions thrown at him in a special question-and-answer session with the poise of a true veteran."

Singled out by Marchetti as key factors in the Colt's sudden resurgence to the NFL heights were offensive halfback Lenny Moore, in the midst of one of the most sensational comebacks in sports history, and Johnny Unitas, as one of the greatest quarterbacks in gridiron annals.

"Better Than Jimmy Brown"

Marchetti attributes the outstanding play of Moore to the work of Baltimore coach Don Shula and says that the 30-year-old Penn State grad has the ability to be the best all-around running back in the league, "even better than Jimmy Brown" (all-time NFL rushing leader and fullback of Cleveland's Eastern Division leading Browns), if he played up to his potential.

As for Unitas, Marchetti praises his poise during the last few years "when Colt fans almost booed him out of the stadium," and says that Shula helped him lead the team once again to the top of the standings by convincing him of the value of a running game.

Marchetti, who will retire at the end of the current season along with middle linebacker Bill Pellington, doesn't see these losses as a fatal blow to the championship team, claiming that Lou Michaels, former Pittsburgh Steeler regular, will do a more than adequate job at his vacated end spot, and rookie Ted Davis, the Colts number four draft choice last year out of Georgia Tech, will fill the bill as line-backer.

His praise of coach Shula is unlimited: "He really commands respect. I received more sound criticism from Shula in two years than I did in all my other years of playing football."

Marchetti admits that the Colts were sluggish in last week's 14-3 win over San Francisco as they were experimenting with many new players in the lineup, but declares that this Sunday's game against the Detroit will be another story. "We really want to beat those Lions. We want to make it 13 wins in a row." Asked about his preference for opposition in the championship game (Cleveland or St. Louis, the two remaining Eastern Division contenders), Marchetti answered like a true pro: "We want Cleveland; their stadium seats 80,000."

Explains Bear's Collapse
And to what does he lay the collapse of the Chicago Bears, last year's NFL champions who are currently struggling along near the Western Division cellar?

"To the Colts, the Packers, the Lions, the Vikings..." Other comments of Marchetti's concerning pro football: The Minnesota Vikings, only team to beat Baltimore this year—"They gave up a physical beating. Vikings coach Norm Van Brocklin knows our style of play and the Vikings really gave us a trimming."

The player draft—"I was a top choice back in 1951 and signed for only $8,500. These kids now are getting ten times that, and they deserve it."

The rival American Football League—"Webb Eubank, coach of the New York Jets, now has eleven former Colts on his roster. These are players whom he released himself when he coached at Baltimore. The AFL is at least four or five years away from even being near our caliber of football. Redskins Are The Best."

The best team in the Eastern Division of the NFL—"The Washington Redskins. They will probably take the division title next year. Their young players are really coming along. Playing them on the final day of the regular season will be a real challenge."

Sam Huff—"Huff is a good player, but he never should have been ranked above the Lions' Joe Schmidt and some of the other great middle linebackers in the league. Playing with the Giants, he has the advantage of the powerful New York press building him up."

Giants' coach Alie Sherman refusing to use young Gary Wood, quarterback in place of aging Y. A. Tittle even when the Giants lost all hopes of winning a title—"The Giants could never be a winning team with Wood at quarterback. Tittle is the best quarterback I have ever played against."

What to do if your son wants to be a defensive lineman—"Give him a baseball."

HOUSTON (AP)—The Washington Senators purchased catcher Doug Camilli from the Los Angeles Dodgers today for an undisclosed sum—believed to be above the waiver price of $20,000.

Pastrano Wins In 11th Round

Downes On Knees When Referee Stops Fight In England

By HENRY W. THORNBERRY
UPI Sports Writer

MANCHESTER, Eng. (UPI)—Dancin's Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach made his second successful defense of the world light heavyweight championship Monday night on an 11th-round technical knockout over blood-smeared Terry Downes of England, former world middleweight champion.

A capacity crowd of 6,000 in King's Hall saw Pastrano, 174½ pounds, whip the 171-pound challenger, who began bleeding from a face cut in the first round and was stopped in the 11th for the sixth technical kayo in his career.

Referee Andrew Symthe intervened to save Downes from further punishment.

Downes was on his knees when Symthe stopped the bout at 1:17 of the 11th.

The 28-year-old Londoner had already been on the canvas for a count of nine earlier in the 11th round from Pastrano's all-out attack.

Pastrano, who usually mixes plenty of defensive maneuvering with his jabbing and straight hitting, went after Terry pell-mell in the 11th, hurling lefts and rights and chasing him about the ring.

A solid right to the chin dropped Downes for a nine-count. He staggered to his feet, bobbing and weaving and trying to escape the rain of blows.

Then a comparatively gentle right to the face dropped Terry again. Symthe, looking down compassionately, shook his head and waved his hands in token that the fight was finished.

Downes' TKO defeat came as a bitter disappointment to the jammed spectators.

Despite a first-round cut over the right eye, Terry fought gallantly and forced the action with a close-quarter hooking attack to body and head. And Downes only trips to the canvas were in the 11th round.

Downes' handlers did an excellent job on the cut over his right eye but it began bleeding profusely after his first knockdown in the 11th round.

Because of Downes' attack in most of the earlier round, the United Press International had him slightly ahead as the 11th started.

It was Willie's second defense of the title he had won from Harold Johnson on a decision

8 New Cage Coaches Lilburn Brown Back

The Football Cleanup Al Has Beagle Champ

By C. V. BURNS

COACHING CHANGES have been made at eight tri-state schools since the close of the 1963-64 basketball season.

Bill Boor, a product of Keyser High School, takes over the reins at Moorefield High, succeeding Jonathan Paugh, who moved up to assistant principal after 20 years as cage tutor of the Yellow-jackets.

Bob Kirk becomes the new basketball boss at Mt. Savage where he succeeds John Thomas, who resigned after coaching the Indians for 12 seasons. Thomas was the coach at old Barton High School when Bob Kirk was the Brave's scoring ace.

A change at Southern High School, Oakland, brings William Watson on the scene as successor to Carl Schoonover, who tutored the Highlanders for nine years.

Lilburn Brown, who is in his 13th year of teaching at Northern High in Garrett county is coming back as basketball coach of the Huskies this season. Brown, who was cage mentor at Northern for seven years, 1952-1959, is a native of Glenview, W. Va., a graduate of Morris Harvey College and earned his Masters at West Virginia U.

He succeeds Max Stieringer, who coached the Huskies for one season. Max remains at Northern as American history and social studies teacher.

Leonard Bonfantino replaces Loring "Jimmie" Vance at Martinsburg.

Crimson Tide Tops Rankings For 2nd Time In Four Years

By CURT BLOCK
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI)—The University of Alabama, bound for the Orange Bowl with a perfect 10-0 record, Monday was named 1964 National College Football Champion for the second time in four years by the United Press International board of coaches.

The Crimson Tide accumulated a sizable vote margin over runner-up Arkansas, also unbeaten in 10 contests, polling 22 first place votes to seven for the Razorbacks and outdistancing them in total points, 333 to 301.

Both teams moved up one position when Southern California surprised Notre Dame, knocking the Irish from the top of the heap to third place in the final rankings.

Notre Dame had the trophy almost in its grasp before USC's 20-17 shocker Saturday and still managed to collect four first place mentions.

'Bama Beat OSU in '61

Alabama, national champion in 1951 when it nosed out Ohio State, is the only school that has been in the top ten each of the last five years.

The Tide's victory sets up a New Year's Day meeting of back-to-back collegiate champs. Texas, last season's number one club, is slated to meet the Southeastern Conference winners under the lights Jan. 1 in Miami.

'Bama 'slumped' to a 9-2 mark in 1963 and was ranked ninth in the final poll.

The United Press International will present a trophy to Alabama symbolic of the national championship at a date to be announced.

Rose Bowl-bound Michigan (8-1) remained in fourth place and picked up two first place votes. Defending champion Texas, whose only setback was a 14-13 squeaker to Arkansas, wound up in fifth place.

Big Eight titlist Nebraska (9-1) stayed in the sixth spot and has a Cotton Bowl date with Arkansas. Louisiana State, the only team among the top ten with a game remaining, finished in seventh place. The Tigers face Florida this Saturday before hosting Syracuse in the Sugar Bowl.

Oregon State in Eighth

Oregon State (8-2) bounced past Ohio State into eighth place in the UPI ratings and also bounced into the Rose Bowl when the Pacific Athletic Conference chose to snub Southern California, which jumped from 14th to 10th.

Florida State dropped a notch to 11th and Syracuse which dropped its final game to West Virginia and didn't play last week leaped from 16th to 12th when it was announced they would play in the Sugar Bowl.

Total tie games played: Ten. Scoreless contests: Hampshire 0, Ridgely 0, and Potomac State 0, Bainbridge Navy, 0.

Biggest switch of 1964: Northern High from 0-20 basketball record to 9-0 football season.

AL GOLDSTROM, proprietor of the Montana Kennel, of Berkeley Springs, has another champion in Montana Summer Song, a two-year-old Beagle.

Montane Summer Song was adjudged the best 15 inch female Beagle in the Baltimore Kennel Club show the past weekend.

Earlier in the year Montana Elouquet won a championship. A total of 1,450 entries were judged in the Baltimore show.

Goldstrom coached at Berkeley Springs High School for many years. He is now associated with the athletic program and is mathematics teacher at South Junior High School, Martinsburg.

It was the first time Utz had won the honor, although he has twice been on the all-Conference football team.

Understanding Needed To Aid Welfare Plans CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) - State Welfare Commissioner W. Bernard Smith thinks welfare programs "can be effective only as they are meshed with total community resources by individuals...and civic groups."

Smith made the statement in a speech scheduled for delivery in Spencer Monday. But he was forced to call it off because of the snow storm and bad road conditions.

In the prepared speech he said "misunderstanding, misconception and...just plain ignorance" prevent many welfare programs from achieving maximum results.

Smith's speech was similar to others he has delivered recently. He said among other things that a "solid new effort" would be made under the federal Economic Opportunity Act to provide basic education in reading and writing for adults on welfare who need some skills.

Sen. Berger May Preside In Pa. Senate HARRISBURG (UPI) - Sen. James S. Berger of Potter County was nominated as president pro tempore of the State Senate Monday at a meeting of Republican senators here.

Although the position must be voted on before the full Senate on the first day of the 1965 session, Berger's nomination virtually assures him of the job since the GOP controls the 27 of the chamber's 50 seats.

The Republican bloc also named Sen. Stanley G. Stroup, Bedford, majority leader to succeed Berger.

Berger, who was reelected to his sixth term in the Senate Nov. 3 will be sworn in at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday and will serve as acting president pro tempore until the official senate vote is called in January.

Mercury Drops To Near Zero In W. Virginia CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) - West Virginians shivered to temperatures that hovered near the zero mark Monday night in the wake of the first general snow storm of the season which dumped up to four inches of snow in some areas of the state.

Elkins reported an official four inches of snow to the U. S. Weather Bureau here. Beckley reported three inches followed by Bluefield with two inches.

Other cities, however, generally had lesser amounts.

Parkersburg, Charleston, Morgantown, Huntington, and Martinsburg each reported one inch.

The State Road Commissioner reported that roads were improved by Monday evening, but chains or snow tires were still advised for some sections, and for all secondary roads.

The SRC reported up to three inches of snow in Mercer and Tucker Counties and in Huntington and Moundsville districts shortly after daybreak Monday.

As the storm continued to move across the state, Nicholas County reported up to three inches later Monday to the Commission.

As night fell, temperatures began dipping, causing slush to freeze on some highways where the snow had melted during the day.

Accompanying Arctic air into West Virginia Monday night were winds from 10 to 15 miles an hour.

The winds were expected to cause some drifting where snow accumulations were heavier.

The mercury during mid-afternoon Monday generally ranged in the low 20s at most cities around the state with Martinsburg in the Eastern Panhandle reporting the warmest temperature at 31 degrees.

Bluefield and Beckley were the coldest spots with readings of 16 and 17 degrees respectively.

While some sunshine is expected Tuesday, temperatures are not expected to climb out of the upper teens and low 20s.

The weather bureau said there was an indication that a new weather pattern which is moving rapidly toward the state may bring some more snow or rain on Wednesday.

Two Men Admitted To Local Hospital

Fanny L. McDonald, 56, of RD 2, city, was killed and two men were hospitalized yesterday in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 40 just east of Flintstone.

Admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital and reported in "fair" condition are Donald Eugene Day, 39, of RD 2, city and Francis Clark, 38, of National.

State Police, who said the accident occurred at 4:10 p. m. at Pratt along Polish Mountain, reported that the woman died of a crushed chest. Authorities at first had difficulty in identifying her. Attaches at the hospital said Mr. Clark went to surgery for facial injuries and also had sustained a right leg injury and an injury to his left hand.

Mr. Day was reported to have sustained fractures of both legs, a hip injury and numerous lacerations.

Police said Mr. Day was driving east on the highway and the woman was a passenger in the car. After he had passed a car, Mr. Day hit Mr. Clark's car headon, police said. The accident was investigated by Trooper R. L. Davis.

The woman was brought to the hospital by McDonald ambulance and the two injured men were taken to the hospital in the ambulance of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

Evitts Creek Snow Scene

It wasn't exactly the first snow of the season, but yesterday's heavy flurries were the first to leave a trace on the ground in most parts of the county. Much prettier than the thousands of frozen snow-covered car windshields was this greeting card view of Evitts Creek east of the city. Garrett County got between one and two inches of snow.

Suit Settled After Jurors Hear Evidence

Agreement Ends Trial In Court

An Allegany County Circuit Court jury spent yesterday afternoon listening to the evidence in a suit for damages only to be informed at the conclusion of a 30-minute recess that the case had been settled.

Mrs. Bridget Knoblock and Frederick A. Knoblock, her husband, Box 162, Cresaptown, filed the suit against Kenneth LeRoy Hostetler, now 19, of RD 2, Keyser.

Mrs. Knoblock, who works as a waitress at the Howard Johnson Restaurant in LaVale, testified that she was injured about 8 p. m. November 1 when the automobile which she was driving from the restaurant to her home was struck from the rear by another vehicle driven by young Hostetler.

She testified that the car she was driving was struck while she was stopped behind another car which was preparing to make a left turn off Winchester Road to the Potomac Drive-In Theatre. Her injuries involved her neck, back and left arm.

Mrs. Knoblock testified that she was taken to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland after the accident and was examined by Dr. Lewis Briggs. Despite his urging that she remain in the hospital, she went home. She was brought back to the hospital in an ambulance on November 6 and remained there about a week.

She resumed work as a waitress on a part-time basis on Thanksgiving 1963 but did not resume full-time employment until February. In all she missed about 40 days of work and said that with tips she made about $15 a day.

Mr. Knoblock and Dr. Briggs also were called to testify by the plaintiffs' attorneys, Milton Gerson and Simon F. Reilly. Thomas N. Berry, the defense attorney, called the 19-year-old defendant and State Trooper Walker D. Grose to the witness stand before concluding his case.

Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton excused the jurors overnight shortly before 5 p. m. after telling them the case had been settled.

Mrs. Carolyn E. Waterman was foreman of the jury of two women and 10 men.

AFS Unit To Meet

Merger Needs Urgent, W. Md. President Says

Port Authority Backs Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two railroad presidents testified Monday that affiliation of Western Maryland Railway with the Baltimore & Ohio and the Chesapeake & Ohio is urgently needed to meet rising costs.

W. Arthur Grotz, president of Western Maryland, said a small carrier, such as his line, cannot continue to exist separately alongside combinations of large railroads.

Grotz told an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner that "constantly increasing costs of supplies and equipment, and the pressures of competition from motor carriers, water carriers, and pipelines, make an early affiliation a matter of urgency."

Walter J. Tuohy, B & O president and C&O chief executive officer testified, "Western Maryland's home is obviously with the C&O-B&O system."

Support for the application came also from Joseph L. Stanton, executive director of the Maryland Port Authority. He said the authority's decision to support the proposal was based on a number of points, including:

1. The applicants have stated that savings of more than $6 million annually in operating costs can be achieved if control is authorized. This saving is expected to improve substantially the B&O's financial picture and lead more quickly to the merger of the B&O-C&O.

2. Control of Western Maryland by B&O-C&O should be of substantial assistance to the port authority in developing the Port Covington area into a large and modern Locust Point-Port Covington marine complex.

3. "We are convinced that, if Baltimore is to continue to progress as a major seaport, it is most important that it have a 'champion.' In the past, the B&O Railroad has served as such a champion for this port."

4. The Western Maryland is a Baltimore carrier, and has a natural affiliation with the B&O-C&O system. Baltimore interests are endeavoring to have the headquarters of the combined system located in Baltimore, and the affiliation should enhance Baltimore's chance of getting the headquarters.

Tuohy said it is apparent that "operational savings of great magnitude could be achieved by affiliation" Western Maryland and B&O, since the two railroads proceed side by side from Baltimore to Conellsville, Pa.

Tuohy was the first witness, as the hearing opened before Examiner Paul Albus on a joint application by B&O-C&O for control of Western Maryland.

Potomac Edison Joins CAPCO Power Pool

Will Coordinate Area Facilities

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Eleven major electric companies serving seven states Monday announced the formation of a joint organization to improve "coordination" of operations and planning for expansion of facilities.

The group will be known as the Central Area Power Coordination Companies (CAPCO), according to a spokesman for the Duquesne Light Company here.

The 11 firms have a combined power generating capability of 17.9 million kilowatts and serve an estimated 15 million people in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia, Maryland, Indiana, Michigan and Virginia.

Are Connected
The group is composed of the Appalachian Power Company, Roanoke, Va.; Cleveland, Electric Illuminating Co., Cleveland; Duquesne Light; Indiana & Michigan Electric Company, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Monongahela Power Co., Fairmont, W. Va.; Ohio Edison Company, Akron, Ohio; Ohio Power Company, Canton, Ohio; Pennsylvania Power Company, New Castle, Pa.; Potomac Edison Company, Hagerstown, Md.; Toledo, Edison Company, Toledo, Ohio; West Penn Power Company, Camp Hill, Pa.

The Duquesne spokesman said all of the companies are now directly or indirectly connected by high-voltage transmission lines for interchange of electric energy and CAPCO will improve coordination of the facilities.

Will Set Policy
An executive committee composed of officials of the member companies will be responsible for basic policy and "fostering development of new opportunities for mutual benefit," the spokesman said.

A CAPCO operating committee will coordinate the scheduling of maintenance of the group's generating and transmission facilities and a planning committee will study ways to increase capacity and develop joint generating units.

Bennett To Speak

Winter's First Light Snow Hits Tri-State Area

Today's Forecast: Sunny And Cold

Cold weather and sunny skies with temperatures in the 20s are forecast today for Western Maryland and parts of West Virginia.

Yesterday morning local and area workers left the warm blankets of their beds and walked outdoors into a blanket of snow—the first real snow of the winter season.

At least three or four inches of snow had fallen in the Mount Storm area and motorists driving along U. S. Route 50 last night were experiencing difficulty. The highway was not in very good condition for travel and the weather was described as very cold.

The snow which fell during the day in Garrett County had stopped about 6 p. m. and there was an accumulation of a couple of inches of snow in Oakland.

Snow which fell in Cumberland yesterday didn't last long, although freezing temperatures left some streets hazardous for driving.

By 9:30 p. m. yesterday the mercury had dipped to an unofficial reading of 28 degrees and the unofficial high for the day was about 32 degrees.

State Roads Commission workmen were called out yesterday to apply abrasives and salt on highways in Garrett County.

The winter storm which moved in from the northwest hit Garrett County about 3 a. m. yesterday and in Allegany County about 4:30 a. m.

188 Couples Get Licenses In November

For the ninth time this year more marriage licenses were issued last month in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, than in the corresponding month last year.

In November, Mrs. Gusteen H. Linaburg, marriage license clerk, issued 188 licenses, compared with 170 in November 1963. May is the only month when this year's total was below the level of the same month of 1963. In both September 235 licenses were issued.

The 2,465 issued so far this year is 11 per cent more than the 2,220 of the first 11 months of 1963. As a matter of fact, the 11-month total this year already is ahead of the 2,423 issued in all of 1963.

One reason for the increase in marriage license activity this year is that civil ceremonies are legal for the first time in Maryland this year. But the 127 civil ceremonies in 11 months account for only about half of the increase. The 11-month total this year is 245 ahead of 1963's 2,220.

Monthly marriage license totals with the 1963 figure listed first in each case:

January—193 and 194; February—148 and 182; March—152 and 211; April—180 and 210; May—208 and 190; June—253 and 299; July—236 and 290; August—250 and 267; September—235 and 235; October—195 and 199, and November—170 and 188.

Deaths

DREYER—Mrs. Frederick C., 93, 602 Sylvan Avenue.

FISHEL—Mrs. Jacob, 64, Baltimore.

McABEE—Mrs. George H., 86, Ridgeley.

RAVENSCROFT—Mrs. Lula L., 93, Newburg.

STEELE—Martin C., 71, of near Winchester.
